PREFACE.

The following pages, which are now given to the public, are the result of an attempt of the author, more than ten years ago, to gather some information about his own family connections, and to trace his ancestry. Then, and for some years later, the work was only a private matter, with no thought that it would ever be given to the public and to future generations. He would not then have ventured upon the task of tracing all of the descendants of such a prolific family as was John Howard's.

Material has been gathered from time to time as opportunity permitted, until the author feels that all of the descendants of John Howard should have the benefit of it. The sources of information have been many :—such as town and city records, probate court records, inscriptions on tombstones, histories, genealogies, compilations from the State archives, verbal statements, and responses from letters. Many dates and statements have been verified from different sources. No attempt has been made to give extended biographical sketches of the many people of whom much might be said ; a few historical facts have been concisely stated about each, if they could be obtained, especially facts relating to public service. In many cases little is learned except dates of birth, marriage and death, and in some cases not all of these.

The plan adopted for the arrangement of the family records is simply and comprehensive. To trace the ancestry of a person, find the record of the person's family referred to, by the index, observe the number given to the family in the centre of the page, turn back and find the corresponding number on the left hand margin of the page, continue in like manner as far as desired ; to trace the descendants of a person, observe the number opposite the name in the margin, find the corresponding number in the centre of the page.

No separate record of the families of the daughters has been made ; all of the information that has been obtained about them is given in the record of the father's family.

For twelve hundred years or more, previous to 1752, in most Christian countries the year commenced the 25th of March, and is designated as O. S., Old Style. In 1753, by an act of Parliament, in England and in all of her dominions, the year was made to commence Jan. 1st, and is designated N. S. or New Style. In this work the year has been made to conform to the New Style. The following abbreviations are used:—b. for born, m. for married, d. for died, dau. for daughter, B. for Bridgewater, W. B. for West Bridgewater, E. B. for East Bridgewater, N. B. for North Bridgewater, E. for Easton, S. for Stoughton, H. for Holbrook, and R. for Randolph. Towns and cities which are not located, are in Massachusetts.

The author takes this opportunity to acknowledge his indebtedness, and express his thanks to numerous correspondents and those whom he has visited, for the willingness with which they have assisted, and furnished information. The author, and every one who reads this book, is especially indebted to B. Winslow Packard, of South Boston, for very much material furnished about the early generations; to Rev. William L. Chaffin, of No. Easton, for information furnished about the Easton families; to George Burrill Howard, of Brockton, for information furnished about the descendants of his ancestor, George Howard; and to Mrs. T. O. Paine, of East Bridgewater, for much information gathered by her father, Rev. Adonis Howard.

Because of the fact that the Howard family have had so much to do with the settlement, growth and development of Bridgewater, it seemed to the author that an outline of the history of the town would be of special interest to the readers of this volume, consequently the following very brief sketch has been added.

It is the hope of the writer that this work may be read by the hundreds into whose hands it shall come with the same interest that he has taken in bringing together from many sources this information.

HEMAN HOWARD.

South Easton, Mass., 1903.

BRIDGEWATER, MASSACHUSETTS.

Bridgewater was the first inland town in the Old Colony. It was originally a plantation granted to the town of Duxbury. When the township of Marshfield, which joined Duxbury on the east, became a separate corporation, Duxbury applied to the Old Colony Court at Plymouth, for an extension to the westward, as a compensation for the territory lost by the incorporation of Marshfield. In 1645, the inhabitants of Duxbury were granted a competent proportion of lands about Saughtuckquett, toward the west, for a plantation for them, and to have it four miles every way from the place where they shall set up their centre, provided it intrench not upon Winnytuckquett, formerly granted to Plymouth. Capt. Miles Standish, Mr. John Alden, George Soule, Constant Southworth, John Rogers and William Brett were nominated by the Court to be foefees in trust for the equal dividing and laying forth the said lands to the inhabitants. There were at first fifty-four inhabitants, who each had one share, and were called original proprietors; only about one-third of these ever became residents of the new plantation; one of this number was John Howard. This grant by the Court was considered as only an authority or right to purchase it of the Indians; accordingly, Capt. Miles Standish, Samuel Nash and Constant Southworth were appointed to make the purchase, which they did, as appears by the following deed:

Witness these presents, that I, Ousamequin, Sachem of the country of Poconocket, have given, granted, enfeofed and sold unto Miles Standish, of Duxbury, Samuel Nash and Constant Southworth, of Duxbury, aforesaid, in behalf of all the townsmen of Duxbury, aforesaid, a tract of land usually called Satucket, extending in the length and bredth thereof, as followeth, that is to say, from the Weir at Satucket seven miles due east, and from the said Weir seven miles due west, and from the said Weir seven miles due north, and from the said Weir seven miles due south: the which tract the said Ousamequin hath given, granted, enfeofed and sold unto the said Miles Standish, Samuel Nash and Constant Southworth in behalf of all the townsmen of Duxbury as aforesaid, with all the immunities, privileges, and profits whatsoever, belonging to the said tract of land, with all and singular, all woods, underwoods, lands, meadows, rivers, brooks, rivulets, etc., to have and to hold to the said Miles Standish, Samuel Nash and Constant Southworth in behalf of all the townsmen of the town of Duxbury, to them and their heirs forever. In witness whereof, I, the said Ousamequin, have hereunto set my hand, this 23d of March, 1649.

In consideration of the aforesaid bargain and sale, we the said Miles Standish, Samuel Nash and Constant Southworth, do bind ourselves to pay unto the said Ousamequin, for and in consideration of the said tract of land, as followeth :

- 9 Hatchets.
- 8 Hoes.
- 20 Knives.
- 4 Moose Skins.
- 10 yards and a half of cotton.

The grant of the Court four miles each way from a centre was located within this territory, purchased from the native Indians. The centre was not located until several years after the purchase. The spot is now marked by a stone monument, which stands near the Westdale railway station. An additional grant was made by the court of New Plymouth to the town of Bridgewater in 1688. It was that they should have six miles from the centre on the north side if the line of the Colony hindereth not, and on the west side up to Taunton bounds (now Raynham and Easton), and on the south and southeasterly sides unto Titicut river as far as the six miles extends, and so likewise on the east side. Actual settlement was not commenced until 1650. Each settler had at first a grant of a house lot of six acres on the Town river. The first lots were taken up in the part of the town which is now West Bridgewater. The houses were near together, for the purpose of protection from the Indians. Eighteen of the original purchasers became permanent settlers. The town was incorporated in 1656, the first town meeting being held Nov. 3d, that year. In May of the following year, town officers were elected; among them was John Howard who was elected surveyor of highways. In the early part of the eighteenth century, settlements had become quite numerous in the northern, eastern and southern portions of the town, and the inhabitants found it inconvenient to go several miles to church and town meetings. They began to petition the Court to be set off as separate parishes, precincts or towns. The town of Abington was set off in 1712 from the northeast portion of the town. In 1716 the southerly portion of the town was organized as the South Parish, for church and school purposes, but its voters continued to go to the old centre of the town to vote until 1822.

When the North, West and East Parishes were set off and incorporated as towns with distinct names in 1821-23, the South Parish inherited the name of the ancient town of Bridgewater, and has since been known by that name. In 1830 its population was 1,855, in 1895 it was 4,686. It is the home of one of the State normal schools, the school having been opened in 1840. The town is prosperous and beautifully situated.

The northern portion of the original town, after 1716, was known as the North Parish until 1723, when it was divided into West and East Parishes. In 1738 portions of these were set off as the North Parish. The first settlement in the East Parish was in 1660. It was set off as a separate precinct in 1723. Was incorporated as the town of East Bridgewater, June 14, 1823. Its population then was about 1,500; it is now about 2,900. There have been no less than twenty-two mill sites in the town. It is a fact worthy of mention that as early as 1742, Hugh Orr owned mills in East Bridgewater, and was the first man in America to cast cannons solid and bore them out. He bored cannons for Mass. during the Revolutionary War. His trip hammer shop was the first of its kind in this part of the country.

The West Parish was incorporated as the town of West Bridgewater in 1822. This portion of Old Bridgewater is more distinctively a farming district than are any of the other Bridgewaters. Many of its citizens are successfully engaged in the dairy business and market gardening. The Howard Seminary is beautifully located here in the centre of the town, as is also the Old Bridgewater Historical Society building.

There was no permanent settlement in the northern portion of Bridgewater until 1700. In 1737 Robert Howard and fifty-four others petitioned the legislature to incorporate them into a separate town. Jan. 3, 1738, they were granted an incorporation as a parish, by the name of the North Parish of Bridgewater. In 1821 the parish was incorporated as the town of North Bridgewater. The following call for the first town meeting is of special interest to the Howard family, as the warrant was issued by Caleb Howard, Esq. The following is an exact copy of the original, which is in the possession of one of Caleb Howard's grandchildren.

To Calib Howard, Esqr., one of the Justices of the piece for and within the County of Plymouth—

We, the subscribers, inhabitants of the town of North Bridgewater, request you to issue a warrant directed to some freehold inhabitant of said town, to call a town meeting on Wednesday, the fourth day of July, inst., at one o'clock in the afternoon, for the purpose of choosing all ncessary town officers for the year ensuing, and to act or do anything the town may think proper, agreeable to the act of incorporation of said town.

In 1874 the name was changed to Brockton. In 1881 it was incorporated as a city. In 1820 the first public stage ran through the town. In 1845 the steam railroad to Boston was first operated. In 1764 the population was 833; in 1810 it was 1,354; in 1820 it was 1,480; in 1830 it was 1,953; in 1860 it was 6,384; in 1880 it was 13,608; and at the present time it is about 45,000. It is the only city in Plymouth County. Its principal business is shoe manufacturing. The city produces more men's shoes than any other place in the world.

HOWARD SEMINARY, WEST BRIDGEWATER, MASS. ERECTED 1876.

HOWARD SEMINARY.

The building of Howard Seminary was made possible by a bequest of Benjamin Beal Howard, who died in New Bedford, April 3, 1867. By his will he left $80,000 for the establishment of a High School or Seminary of learning. The money was left in the care of eleven trustees, all of whom are now dead except John E. Howard, of Brockton, who has not been a trustee since 1875. Only the income of this bequest was to be used for the support of the school. In April, 1868, the trustees purchased of Jonathan Howard, ten acres of land on which to erect the school building. In May, 1875, the work of building was commenced, and completed in 1876. Mr. Otis Drury, one of the original trustees, willed his whole property, after the death of his widow, amounting to about seventy thousand dollars, to the Seminary, the interest of which only should be expended. In May, 1883, the trustees engaged Miss Helen Magill, daughter of Edward H. Magill, President of Swarthmore College of Pennsylvania, to open a girls' school in the new building, which was called "Howard Collegiate Institute," and to continue in charge five years. This same year a boarding hall was built, accommodating thirty pupils, which is known as "Drury Hall." In 1885 it was enlarged to accommodate sixteen more pupils. Another of the school buildings is Packard Cottage, used for music, receptions and dormitories. In 1887 Miss Magill resigned her position.

Miss Emma O. Conro was the next principal, who filled the position for three years. In September, 1890, Horace M. Willard, formerly principal of Bridgewater Academy, was engaged as principal for one year. At his suggestion, the name of the school was changed to "Howard Seminary," July 1, 1891. He was engaged for five years, at the close of which time he resigned his position. He was succeeded by Ralph W. Gifford, who occupied the position of principal for two years. He was succeeded, in Sept., 1898, by Miss Sarah E. Laughton, who is principal at the present time. There are now eleven instructors in the school, which has an academic course of four years, consisting of prescribed and elective studies, and a college preparatory course of four years, consisting of prescribed studies to fit the requirements for admission to the particular college the pupil intends to enter.

THE OLD BRIDGEWATER HISTORICAL SOCIETY BUILDING.

The Old Bridgewater Historical Society was organized April 19, 1894, and incorporated in 1895. Its object is the "collection, preservation and publication of material which shall contribute to the history of the colonial township of Bridgewater." The erection of a building for a home for the various books, papers and relics of the past two hundred and fifty years, was first contemplated in 1898. In 1900 the building was erected, in memory of the original proprietors and early settlers of Bridgewater. The building occupies a prominent position in what is now West Bridgewater, and stands upon land contiguous to the site of the first meeting house and burying place of the early proprietors, and within the limits of the homestead of John Howard, an original proprietor, and was given to the Society by Francis Edward Howard, one of his descendants.

Upon the walls of the building within, are erected marble tablets in commemoration of many of the prominent families of Old Bridgewater, including the following families:—Keith, Brett, Perkins, Latham, Kingman, Packard, Field, Southworth and Reynolds. The southerly end of the building, being the right side of the accompanying picture, is set apart as a Howard alcove. All papers, books and relics relative to the Howard family that are, or may come into the possession of the Society, are to be kept in this alcove. The Howard tablet in this alcove was erected by the late Francis Edward Howard, of West Bridgewater, and contains the following inscription:

LETTER FROM MARY HAYWARD TO JOHN HAYWARD.

This letter is a photographic reproduction of the original, which is in the possession of a member of the Howard family. It is supposed to have been written to John Howard, the progenitor of this family, by his mother, who spelled her name Hayward, which was not an uncommon way of spelling the name. As it is very difficult to read the letter, the following is printed as an aid:

LONDON, Aug. 16, 1652.

LOVING SON :—

Having a fitt opportunity by a friend to send to you, I could not, out of my motherly care to you and your brother, do less than write these few lines to you to certify you that both I and your sister are in good health, prayes be God, and that I earnestly desire to hear from you both, how you do and how and in what condition you are both. Your sister desires to be remembered to you both, and she and I have sent you some small tokens of our love for you. I have sent George 3 bands and a handkerchief, and an handkerchief to yourself, and I have sent you a shilling to you to pay for writing of a letter, if by long silence you have forgott. I wonder, son, you should so forgott your mother, whose welfare she tended more than anything in the world. Your sister hath sent you a book of your father's to you and a bible to George. Did we conceive you were alive, we would have sent you better tokens. Child, with my blessing to you both, desiring to hear from you and whether you ever intend for England, and how your cousing Sarah doth, with my daily prayer to the Lord for you, I rest.

JOHN HOWARD AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

FIRST GENERATION.

JOHN HOWARD, with his brother George, came from England, and settled in Duxbury. He was among those who were able to bear arms there in 1643. He was about fifteen years old when he came to Duxbury. He lived in the family of Capt. Miles Standish, who came from Shorely, Lancashire, England. He soon removed to Bridgewater, and was one of the original settlers and proprietors of that town. Judge Mitchell, in his history of Bridgewater, says that John Howard, the first Howard to settle in Bridgewater, was a man of much influence in the new plantation.

In 1645 his name appears as one of the fifty-four original proprietors of the grant of land afterward known as Bridgewater. In 1656 he was one of the two surveyors of highways for his town. In 1657 he had taken the Freeman's oath. He was one of the fourteen men whose allotment of land was in the easterly part of the grant. He was one of the first military officers, and was appointed Ensign, Sept. 27, 1664. In May, 1676, during King Philip's War, Ensign John Howard, with twenty others, fought with some Indians and took seventeen of them alive with much plunder, and all returned without serious injury. June 5, 1678, he was a deputy to the General Court of Massachusetts; also on the same date was appointed a selectman of his town. In 1683 he, with Thomas Hayward, was a representative to the General Court. Oct. 2, 1689, he was promoted, and received his commission as a lieutenant. Mr. Howard was a carpenter by trade. He spelled his name Haward, and so did his descendants until after 1700. He m. Martha, a dau. of Thomas Hayward, one of the original proprietors of Bridgewater, who came on the ship Hercules, in 1635, from Sandwich, County of Kent, England, with five children and three brothers.

Mr. Howard lived in a house which he built near the first meeting house. It stood directly north of the house where B. B. Howard now lives, on the corner of Howard and River streets. The accompanying picture shows the spot of ground as it now appears; the well curb seen in the picture is over the well that was used with Mr. Howard's house. This was the first public house in Bridgewater, as Mr. Howard was licensed to keep an ordinary or tavern, in 1670, at this place. It would probably be difficult to find, in the history of all the taverns that have existed in Massachusetts, another of which it can be said, as Judge Mitchell says of this original Howard House, that "He (John Howard), was licensed to keep an ordinary or tavern, as early as 1670, and it is remarkable that a public house has been kept there by his descendants ever since, till within a few years." This house was owned and managed by John Howard and his direct descendants for a period of 151 years. John Howard opened the tavern in 1670, and kept it 30 years, until his death in 1700. His oldest son, John, then became proprietor, conducting it 26 years, until 1726. His son, Maj. Edward, was proprietor from that date to 1771, for 45 years. His son, Col. Edward, owned and conducted the house for 38 years, from 1771 to 1809, when he d. Then his widow and son, Capt. Benjamin Beal Howard, kept the house open 12 years, until 1821. The house was taken down in 1838. A list of the distinguished guests of this tavern, could we know their names, would make exceeding interesting reading. Without doubt, one of the early distinguished visitors was Mary (Chilton) Winslow, (the first lady who came on shore from the Mayflower), who was grandmother of the wife of the second proprietor, John Howard. An occasional guest was John Reed, D. D., who was a member of congress during Washington's administration. Oakes Angier, a young lawyer, Hon. William Baylies and Judge Howard, were other prominent and frequent visitors. Lieut. Howard d. in 1700. His property was appraised in October, the next year. It consisted of about 450 acres of land, and his estate was valued at about 840 pounds. Following is a copy of the division of his estate and of that of his widow, who d. before 1703.

To Edward Fobes, his wife, in money and moveables, (£68, 00 s., 00 d.); to Zacheus Packard's wife, in money and moveables, (£68, 00 s., 00 d.); to Henry Kingman's wife, in money and moveables, (£68, 00 s., 00 d.); the said three daughters to have their part as appraised and as set in the inventory; and for as much as the above-mentioned lands divided to Ephraim, amounts to one hundred and three pounds, seventeen and six pence, he is to return to the estate £18, 07 s., 06 d.

This above written is the mutual agreement of the sons, sons-in-law, and daughters of the above-named Lieut. John Howard, late of Bridgewater, deceased, made and agreed on the sixteenth day of October, 1701. In testimony whereof they have hereunto sealed and subscribed.

with. The winter following his graduation he taught school in Genesee county, N. Y., and went to Detroit, Mich., Apr. 12, 1840, where he became a tutor in mathematics in a branch of the Michigan State University, and at the same time studied law. He was admitted to the bar in 1842, and was engaged in the active practice of his profession with signal success, until 1854. In that year he was elected to Congress, and was twice re-elected, serving six years in all.

In 1856, as chairman of the Kansas Committee, he, with John Sherman, made that (majority) report on the affairs of Kansas, regarded then and ever since as one of the ablest and most important ever published by order of Congress, which electrified the country by its thoroughness and fearless candor, and extended its influence with great power into the presidential election of 1860.

At the end of his third term, he returned home, having taken high rank in Congress, and had a place on most important committees, and also having gained for himself a national reputation, and cast honor on his District and State. About this time the war came, and he was once more doing all that lay in his power for the good of his country. Physically incapacitated for enduring the hardships of war, he nevertheless threw his whole soul into the Union cause, and by his stirring eloquence did much to fill the ranks of the army when men were needed.

Soon after his retirement from Congress he was appointed postmaster at Detroit by President Lincoln, in which position he continued five and one-half years, until a refusal to indorse Pres. He soon left his law studies, and entered Bangor Theological Seminary, from which he graduated in 1860, and became a Congregational clergyman. His first pastorate was at Farmington, Me., where he remained ten years. He then preached at Princeton, Ill., removing from there to East Orange, N. J., and from there to Rockport, Mass., this being his last pastorate. He was a lover of books, and a forceful writer, contributing many articles for various publications. During his East Orange pastorate he was Eastern Editor of the Chicago Advance, of which his brother Charles Henry was Editor-in-chief. He was a student of all questions relating to his fellow-men. "While in Rockport he became deeply interested in the cause of international arbitration, and finally gave up all other work to become secretary of the American Peace Society of Boston, which position he held the remaining years of his life. He enlisted the sympathies of the leading public men in America and Europe, in international arbitration, gaining their personal allegiance in a permanent manner. He attended three World Conferences in this interest in Europe, and advocated an International Court to decide the differences existing between nations. For these services he was greatly honored by the friends of peace, especially in England and the United States. He met his death through overtaxing his strength while at the International Peace Congress in Rome, his last address being an eloquent appeal for the establishment of international justice through a High Court of Appeal, in place of the historic methods of war."
